New York, July 17.—The Russian armies are continuing their vigorous offensive in eastern Galicia and other groups of the empire's vast forces are apparently ready to spring into activity at various points along the 800 mile front.

Everything appears to be running smoothly with the military machine, or at least it seems in far more effective shape than even the rosiest forecasts indicated. Meanwhile, Russian governmental affairs, which appeared to have been going well for some time past, are again ruffled with a cabinet disagreement.

Four ministers including Finance Minister Shingareff, have resigned because of objections to the policy decided upon by the other ministers regarding affairs in the Ukraine which, like Finland, has desires for an independent government. A meeting of the council of ministers has been called to solve the crisis and it is hoped the resignations will be withdrawn.

Coincidentally come reports of disorders in Petrograd instigated by the radical party of the Social-Democratic party as a demonstration against the government. Rival parties of demonstrators appear to have fired on each other during a panic brought about by a few stray shots and a number of persons were killed or wounded. Quiet was soon restored.

Notwithstanding the change in the German chancellorship and before any declaration of policy has been made by the new occupant of the post, Dr. George Michaelis, the Reichstag revolt against existing conditions appears to be going on unchecked. The majority in favor of a declaration of peace terms, it is declared, will present their resolution on Thursday, the day the new chancellor is scheduled to speak and will demand that he accept the declaration in principle before they agree to co-operate with him.

The early days of the war when German shipping was being combed up on the seven seas by the British fleet, are recalled by today's announcement from London of the capture of four German steamers by British destroyers. The captures were effected in the North Sea. None of the quartet was a large vessel, the average of the four being about 1300 tons. They were accompanied by two other German steamers. All made good shore when signalled and the two that finally reached the Dutch coast were badly damaged by gunfire.

An important success has been won by the French in the Verdun region. As the result of an attack last night all the positions west of Hill 304 which remained in German hands after the attack of June 29 and 30 were recovered. German prisoners to a number not yet ascertained by the French high command were taken in the action.

In the Champagne the Germans made another attack last night in an attempt to retake the lost observation positions at the Teuton height.
General Petain's troops routed the assaulting forces in disorder.

MONTH REQUIRED TO MUSTER GUARD
INTO U. S. SERVICE

Columbus, O., July 17.—Major E.
L. Ruffner, of the regular army, who has charge of the medical examination work at Camp Willis last summer, when the Ohio guard was mustered into service for duties on the Mexican border, again has been selected to supervise the medical examination of Ohio National Guardsmen. He reached here today and will be associated with Colonel Penn, state mustering officer, in taking the steps necessary to get the Ohio army ready for federal duties.

Colonel Penn arrived in Columbus this morning and immediately held a conference with Adjutant General George H. Wood. Later he met ten officers of the Third Infantry, already in federal service, who will assist in mustering in the troops. The forces will get actively in the field tomorrow morning.

Requisition for the blankets, cots and bedding sacks needed by the Ohio troops was made to the central department at Chicago last night. Campaign equipment will be issued until after the troops are assembled in Montgomery, Ala., the southern cantonment.

The mustering in and medical examination of guard troops will require at least three weeks, and perhaps five.

Rumanian nationalism.

GERMAN LOSSES
350,000 MEN FRENCH
EXPERTS ESTIMATE

French Front, June 25.—Severe incursions have been made on the strength of the German troops holding the line on the French-British front during the attacks delivered on them in the months of April, May and June. An estimate made on well established averages demonstrates that their losses must approximate 350,000 men.

As a general rule a division is not withdrawn from the fighting line until it has lost one-third of its effectives and thus the German losses may be fairly accurately gauged.
For instance, a German division nowadays when at full strength numbers approximately 15,000 infantrymen. Therefore, the 135 divisions which have passed through the fire have in all probability each lost 2500 killed, wounded and prisoners, making in all 347,500 casualties in the infantry alone in the last 3 months, without regard to the engineers and other service troops.

Forty-three of the German divisions on this front have not taken part in the fighting, these comprising eighteen landwehr divisions considered as second line troops and 25 other divisions.

One particular feature noticed on this front is that the German divisions brought back from Russia have never been sent into the first line without going through a fresh course of training, as it was found the troops had lost much of their dash.

SHIP PROGRAM IS DELAYED WHILE
BOARD WRANGLES

Washington, July 17.—The government's ship building program continued at a standstill today and there was no indication when Major General Goethals, manager of the shipping board's emergency fleet corporation, would proceed with his plans for requisitioning and speeding up construction of merchant ships building in American yards.

General Goethals transmitted to Chairman Denman of the board, today information regarding his program requested yesterday. He outlined in detail his plans for taking over private yards and for building two government-owned ship plants to turn out fabricated steel ships.

The shipping boards, whose members and employees are directors of the fleet corporation, and control its stock, probably will be called together to go over General Goethals' plans. No one on the board would say today whether the general manager's program would be approved.

Some members of the shipping board, including Chairman Denman, want more wooden ships built than General Goethals has provided for.
The suggestion has come from Mr.
Denman, also, that the board will investigate carefully General Goethals' proposal to build government ship plants. In a statement given to the press last night, Mr. Denman said in this connection:

"General Goethals has not even told the public or the directors of the corporation the names of the two contractors who will undertake the fabricating contracts. For all we know they may be mere subsidaries of the steel producers."

The delay in ship building is charged by General Goethals directly to Chairman Denman, although Mr.
Denman contends that the shipping board is not seeking to hamper General Goethals in any way.

CLEARING HOUSE
FOR COAL SUPPLY IS STATE'S PLANGov. Cox's Committee Seeks to Assure Adequate Supply for HomesSEEK TROUBLE WHICH DIMINISHES PRODUCTIONBarge Shipments for River Cities Will Help Solve the Transportation Problem

Columbus, O., July 17.—The coal committee of Governor Cox's war cabinet today recommended the establishment of a clearing house for the purpose of guaranteeing an abundant supply of coal for every community in the state for domestic consumption.

In a report to the governor it was estimated that a million families in Ohio will require approximately six tons each for the year. With this statement was an expression that coal operators will agree to set aside this quantity of coal to guarantee plenty for domestic use. Consumers who have made a practice of buying coal early are urged to lay in their supply before August.

In a statement this afternoon, Governor Cox said he would request that the pledged assurance in writing be submitted by the operators this week that the six million tons will be set aside. He also announced pursuant to this, that a meeting will be held in Columbus next Tuesday and a meeting in Cleveland not later than Wednesday.

In connection with a conference with members of the coal committee and subsequent announcement of its recommendations, Governor Cox gave out the following statement:

"The committee expressed as its opinion that the matter could be worked out in not to exceed three days. It was instructed to confer with officers of the United Mine Workers of America with reference to condition that is diminishing the output of mines. It is reported that in the Hocking district on Monday the coal cars were not placed at the mines when men reported for work.
There was an hour's delay, the result being that no coal was mined. It seems that the agreement with reference to placement of cars is not uniform over the state. It is the hope that an agreement can be made with the miners' help and a common sense middle ground attained. A vast economic loss is occurring every day in Ohio by reason of this situation."

"The committee also was requested to give further attention to the amount of coal that is being shipped in barges. It is the opinion that river towns and Cincinnati might be more safely assured against shortage if increased shipments were made by barge from the Pittsburg and Pomeroy districts."

"The committee recommends that those consumers who have been accustomed to obtaining their supply in advance, begin laying it in by the first of August. Between now and then some guidance will be offered with reference to the maximum price. The committee will be lost definitely that nothing will be done in the way of price by purchasing back to their ward councilman, which, in this instance, made Mr.
Stasel the goat."

Again says Mr. Stasel WHY?
Just about the time all city officials breathed a sigh of relief in the thought that the vexing garbage question had been solved temporarily at least, the subject as nauseating to councilmen as the garbage odor is to the South Newark people, came back like the proverbial cat.
Mr. Stasel's emphatic demand for information aroused the militant spirit of Councilman Seward, whose
hostility to Health Officer Knauss
has not been as eruptive in the past few months as it was in times past.

AUTO VICTIM WILL DIE.

Toledo, O., July 17.—Three people were injured in an automobile wreck here early this morning. Benjamin Lavine, 25, has a fractured skull.
He will die, hospital authorities say.
The other two were bruised. They were in a car that was speeding when it swerved and struck a tree.

nouncement today. "All the machines returned safely."

day at 9 o'clock.

WESTERN TOWN FINDS EASY WAY TO GET RID OF I. W. W.'S

Leading I. W. W. agitators from jail to train; loading them on cattle cars.

I. W. W. agitators, whose leaders are believed to be in the employ of Germany, are getting rough treatment in some of the western towns, where they are stirring up discontent among workmen and urging them to strike for a six-hour day and minimum wages of one dollar an hour. These pictures were taken in the mining town of Jerome, Arizona, where seventy-two "I Won't Works" were rounded up by the citizens, put on cattle cars and deported to New Mexico.

REGISTER KICK AGAINST DUMPING GARGAGE FROM BRIDGE; ICE MEN HIT

With a contract entered into by the city for the disposal of garbage collected in the city, pending the construction of the incinerating plant, and in face of the fact that council rejected a proposition from the Newark Tallow company to handle such garbage, Councilman Joseph Stasel of the second ward arose in his might last night and interjected the question WHY?

He wants to know why residents of South Newark, those living within smelling distance of the South Fork, must endure the stench arising from the garbage, in various stages of decay, dumped over the balustrade of the South Second street bridge. He asserts that it is highly objectionable at any time but is particularly offensive and even nauseating, when South Newark people are at the dinner table.

He declares that when he referred his constituents to the health officer, that Dr. Knauss sent them back to their ward councilman,
which, in this instance, made Mr.
Stasel the goat.

Just about the time all city officials breathed a sigh of relief in the thought that the vexing garbage
question had been solved temporarily at least, the subject as nauseating
to councilmen as the garbage odor
is to the South Newark people, came
back like the proverbial cat.

Mr. Stasel's emphatic demand for information aroused the militant
hostility to Health Officer Knauss
has not been as eruptive in the past few months as it was in times past.

He took occasion to unburden himself in regard to the nauseating and disgusting practice of this crude method of garbage disposal.
Mr. Seward declared that the health officer gave permission in the past to dump garbage over the bridge railing at this point and he assumed that the same permission was given in this case. "I'll say," said Mr. Seward, "that Dr. Knauss is no kind of a health officer, and that he should be reported to the state board of health. He allows one man a privilege and curbs another in the same endeavor. He's not here tonight, but I would not hesitate to say the same thing if he were here. I hope some one carries to him what I have said."

And all this eloquence from the councilman from the Second ward and the councilman at large failed to bring an answer to the question put by Mr. Stasel, WHY?

Returning to the propositions set forth in the first paragraph of this story, be it remembered that council authorized a contract with C. O.
Harris to look after the disposal of garbage collected in Newark pending the construction of an incinerating plant. The bonds, $6,000 worth of them, to pay for such a plant, have been authorized. And still the stench from the city's garbage annoys South Newark people.
They join in a mighty chorus with Mr. Stasel's WHY?

But garbage wasn't the only timeworn and threadbare subject brought up in council last night. It's true that the garbage question has

SENATE RUSHES
AIR FLEET PLAN; ACT IS APPROVED

Washington, July 17.—Another speed record in considering the $440,000,000 aviation program bill, passed last Saturday by the House in five hours was made today when the Senate military committee at a 45 minute session unanimously ordered a favorable report without amendment.

The committee decided not to hold hearings in order that the appropriations may become available as soon as possible.

Senate leaders hope to secure an agreement to set aside the food bill temporarily tomorrow and pass the aviation measure with brief debate.
Among amendments suggested by the war department and which the committee today decided to postpone, was one for creating an air craft production board. The committee believed such an amendment would develop contentions regarding personnel and powers of the board and that congressional action could well be deferred.

BRITISH VESSELS
BAG FOUR GERMAN
VESSELS IN CHASE

London, July 17.—The admiralty announces the capture of four German steamers by British destroyers in the North Sea.

The steamers are the Pellworm, Brietze, Marie Horn and Heinz Blumberg.

Two other German steamers were with the four vessels later captured when the group was signalled by the British shipwreck. All six made for the Dutch coast and two of them reached the shore. These two were badly damaged by gunfire.

The captured steamers are all small, the largest being the Brie-tze of 1435 tons gross, owned in Hamburg. The Pellworm, 1370 tons gross, also was owned in Hamburg. The Marie Horn, 1038 tons, is from Schleswig and the Heinz Blumberg, 1226 tons is registered from Hamburg.

A further dispatch from Ymuden says four German ships have been sunk by British destroyers in the North Sea, four captured, three stranded and three forced to return to Rotterdam.

AMERICAN SHIP TORPEDOED.

Washington, July 17.—News of the torpedoing of the American schooner Childe Harold, in European waters June 20, reached the state department today in a message from Montevideo, announcing the safe arrival there of the schooner master and crew of eight. The survivors were picked up soon after their vessel went down by a steamer bound across the Atlantic for the Uruguayan capital.

Akron, O., July 17.—Police are looking for three automobile bandits who last night entered three homes in Akron, stole money and valuables and wounded a woman who tried to stop them. When the robbers endeavored to enter the home of P. Cole, Mrs. Cole screamed for help. The man leaped towards her and struck her over the head.

San Juan, Porto Rico, July 17.—

yesterday's election early today showed Porto Rico to have voted for prohibition by more than 2 to 1.

RUSS MINISTERS DISAGREED OVER UKRAINE POLICY

Petrograd, July 17.—Three members of the cabinet have resigned and a special session of the Council of Ministers has been convoked in an effort to avert a crisis. Their names are: A. I. Shingareff, minister of finance; Professor Manuiloff, minister of education; Prince Shaslovsky, head of the department of public aid, and M. Stepanoff, acting minister of commerce.

The resignations of these cabinet ministers followed a short disagreement over questions involving the Ukraine, an extensive region in Russia embracing part of the territory of the old kingdom of Poland.

Premier Lvoff has requested the ministers to meet at his private residence when the cause of the dispute will be considered. It is known he will attempt to prevail on them to withdraw their resignations. The split in the ministry occurred last night at a ministerial conference called to consider a report submitted by Mr. Tseretshenko, minister of foreign affairs, and M.
Tseretelli, minister of posts and telegraphs, as a result of their negotiations concerning the Ukraine.

The cabinet ministers criticised the text of the Ukraine declaration, first because it abolishes all power of the temporary government in the Ukraine; second, because it did not specify of what territories the Ukraine consisted or make clear how it shall be governed.

Columbus, July 17.—All complaints received by state officials from cities or districts which believe their draft quotas to be too high will be passed on to the war department at Washington and will not be acted upon here, it became known today. It was stated that neither Governor Cox nor Judge Advocate General Turney have the power to alter the war department's figures as announced officially yesterday.

Reports were received here today that Akron is preparing to protest against the quota allotted her on the ground that it is much too big.
So much discussion has been caused by the official announcement of the draft quotas that Colonel Turney today decided to make public the credits given to the various cities and counties for voluntary enlistments.

Following is a table showing the gross quotas, credits, adjustments, and net quotas of the larger cities and counties. The gross quotas minus the credits and adjustments equal the net quotas—the number to be actually drafted. In each case the first group of figures indicate the gross quota; the second the credits for enlistments; third, adjustments; fourth, net quota.

OHIO IS ONE OF STATES
DELAYING THE DRAWING

Washington, July 17.—With only ten states remaining to be heard from on the organization of local exemption boards and with the serial number lists of the 4,559 exemption districts on file in Washington, Provost Marshal General Crowder was hopeful today that the preliminary stages of the war army drafting would be completed within 48 hours. He prepared to take up with Secretary Baker, later in the day details of the lottery process for final approval.

If there is no unexpected delay it seems likely that the drawing can be held Friday or Saturday. A single district which fails to finish its preliminary work on time, however, can hold up action indefinitely.

Once past the drawing stage, General Crowder pointed out today, necessary for concerted action by the states ceases and the examination of registrants and their assignment to the army or exemption can proceed in any state without regard to progress made in any other community.

The ten states not having pleaded their preparations for the drawing are: Ohio, Alabama, Minnesota, New York, Michigan, Missis-

MAY VOTE TODAY ON AMENDMENTS TO FOOD MEASURE

Washington, July 17.—Senate leaders today virtually concluded their task of drafting compromise amendments to the administration food control bill and debate was continued with the prospect of voting late today or tomorrow.

The compromise agreements, the Democrats and Republicans who have been working together believe, will command support from a majority of the Senate.

Creation of a board of food administration in lieu of a single individual, composed of three members directly under the President's control, is the principal change to be proposed by the leaders. Other important changes agreed upon today at the bi-partisan conference were for fixing by congress of a minimum price of $1.75 per bushel for wheat and extension of the government licensing and food purchasing powers in the bill. It previously had been agreed to limit government control of foods, feeds and fuels, including gasoline and kerosene.

NEWARK BOYS ARE IN FINE CONDITION AT FORT HARRISON

[Special to The Advocate]
Fort Benj. Harrison, Ind., July 16.—The candidates for commissions in the Officers Reserve corps have finished their ninth week of intensive training, and have indeed taken on the appearance of bronzed veterans. The work, hard and strenuous though it has been, has improved the physique of every man and made him look like a true soldier. The Ohio men have spent the last two weeks in finishing up rifle and pistol shooting on the range and in constructing modern trenches. Instruction and practical illustration was given in the demolition of trenches and other objectives. A part of each week has been taken up by battalion and company drill, and field work in scouting and patrolling. The afternoon, as usual, have been devoted to the study of minor tactics, estimation of distances, target designation and manual of court martial.

Last Thursday was Ohio's day here at the fort at which time Governor James M. Cox was a distinguished visitor. Brigade review was held in the afternoon, after which the governor made the best speech that has been heard here this season. Later a feast with entertainment was held in the Ohio camp for the governor and his party. About 1400 men were served the following menu:

Almonds Bananas Oranges
Fried spring chicken
Cream Gravy
Mashed potatoes Green peas Combination salad
Cantaloupe a la mode
Cake
Cigars Coffee Cigarettes
Grape juice cocktail

Walter Trittip, Company 5, and Charles W. Montgomery, Co. 8, both of Newark, occupied responsible positions on the committee of arrangements. The bands of the Tenth and Forty-fifth Infantry furnished the music. The governor responded to the call of the Ohio men with a most appropriate after dinner speech, and received a storm of applause.

The Newark men here are still in the best of health and spirits, and no one can get a complaint out of a single one of them. All are pleased to know that so many of their friends at home are seeking admission to the second camp, and hope that they will all be successful.

Fred Palmer has been acting lieutenant and captain of Company 5, as has Carl Meyer and Richard Jones. Walter Trittip has been coach on the firing line at the rifle range. John S. Fieck and Harold Rutledge have been acting as lieutenants and section leaders in the First Ohio Battery and Leland Stevenson have also been acting officers in their respective companies.

There are only four more weeks of training left for the men in the present officers' camp, and already rumors and conjectures are broad regarding the number of men who will receive the coveted commissions. It is a settled fact, however, that mature men, regardless of previous military experience, will be given preference.

This week's schedule consists of company drill, instruction in bayonet and trench fighting, conferences in battle fire training and manual for court martial. Battalion camp overnight with outpost and battalion attack and defense problems will also constitute a part of the work.

The Newark boys of Battery B, who are here to aid in the instruction of artillery candidates, are comfortably quartered in tents, north of the Ohio camp, and have already acquired the healthy and contented Fort Harrison appearance. The folks at home need have no fear that they are not being well provided for, and taken care of because all are doing well.

PROSPERITY BULLETIN NO. 26.

"The prospects are the Government will spend something like $400,000,000 in this trade area for supplies during the next six months. This is expected to stimulate trade in most lines until it is better than good."

HETUCK CHAPTER TO AID IN FURNISHING GARMENTS FOR NAVY

With 200,000 men in the navy, most of whom will need warm garments for protection during the many days of sea duty ahead of them, the Daughters of the American Revolution have undertaken to supply the great need for knitted garments so necessary for the comfort of the navy men. Hetuck Chapter of this city already is engaged in the work. A meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Hickett, 144 North Fifth street, when those who are knitting will bring their work. Members of the chapter will transact important business.

Since March 5,000 sets of garments have been finished and forwarded to the navy men by the women over the country interested in this work. Newark women are endeavoring to do their part in this important work.

ASSESSMENTS MAY BE PAID TO CLERK TO SAVE EXTRA CHARGE

Newark citizens living on thirty streets recently improved either by paving or sewers, still have an opportunity to pay the special assessments in cash before they are sent to the county auditor to be placed on the tax duplicate for collection in semi-annual installments, with the regular taxes.

Clerk J. S. Woodward of the City Council is now preparing these special assessments to be certified to the auditor but will receive cash payments up to August 1.

There is quite a saving to the taxpayer of the assessments are paid in cash and many property owners take advantage of this to pay the assessments direct to the clerk.

CANDIDATES FOR TRAINING CAMP TAKING THE EXAMS

Examination of the men from this section who applied for admission to the Second Officers Training Camp has already begun.

A. T. Kent, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. was ordered to report for examination this afternoon at Columbus.

Orders are sent to men asking them to report at specific times. Several others have received orders to report today or tomorrow.

PROCEEDS OF BIG COUNTRY STORE WILL BOOST FAIR

The farmers of Licking county are to participate in stocking the country store at the Farmers' and Merchants' picnic to be held at the County Fair Grounds, July 26, and thereby do their "bit" in raising funds with which later the coming Licking County Fair is to be advertised throughout this whole section. This plan has been worked out by the committee in charge of the picnic and it is expected that the farmers, as well as the merchants, will contribute liberally towards furnishing the supplies for the country store. Last year more than 5,000 articles were disposed of in less than two hours and the people of the rural districts obtained some splendid bargains during the sale in which no article cost less than ten cents, and the values ranged from ten cents to $6.

At a meeting last night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms of the country store committee of which J. R. Walters is chairman, it was decided that as the country store is of mutual benefit to town and country and the entire receipts will be devoted to advertising the coming Licking County Fair, it is fitting that the country people should participate with the business men in stocking this country store.

More money will be needed this year than ever to advertise the Licking County Fair as it will be the best in many years, many new features being added—aviation flights, twice daily golf races every day of the fair, something never known before; more and better premiums and improved attractions generally. Because of the fair dates have been advanced a month better weather is hoped for and an increased attendance.

In order to have a successful picnic and a county fair, co-operation of the farmers as well as the merchants must be had and each will be given an opportunity to do their part.

A committee of 30 business men has been organized to call upon the merchants and manufacturers of Newark and letters have been sent to the 26 Granges asking their co-operation. From the farmers the committee would be pleased to receive canned goods of any description or any other products from the farm that are not perishable. Same may be left at the following places of business in Newark not later than Tuesday, July 24: Chamber of Commerce, David C. Metz, grocery and meat market, 506 East Main street; A. H. Marple & Son, grocery, 242 North Fourth street; Arthur Powell's stand, Peoples Market Co., 31 N. Taylor street; Farmers' Market at the Farmers' and Merchants' Picnic headquarters, Robinson building, 19 West Church street.

The committee will greatly appreciate that, when possible, donations shall be in Newark, Saturday, July 21, to afford ample time to mark and arrange the merchandise.

The country store will be located under the grand stand, as last year and values ranging from ten cents to $6 can be secured for the small sum of ten cents. The number in the sealed envelope will correspond with the number of the article received.

U. S. TARS "MEN OF THE DAY" IN FRANCE

French women train porters serving "grape juice" to a Yankee tar.

American jack tars are the "heroes of the day" in France, where they are invariably treated with great kindness and courtesy. In the photo the typical spirit of the "widows of France" is exemplified. The women have taken the places of the men on the trains as porters, waiters, etc. In this work they meet many American fighting men, and they never fail to make the visitors feel that their welcome is whole-hearted.

"I might give you a formal prescription, but what's the use? It would cost you more than a jar of Resinol and I shouldn't be nearly as sure of the results. You see, I have been using Resinol Ointment for over twenty years. During that time I have tried out dozens of new ways of treating skin troubles, but I have always come back to Resinol—I know that it stops itching at once, generally heals the eruption, and that it contains nothing which could irritate the skin. You can get a jar at any drug store."

BACKWARD BOY SPRINGS SURPRISE ON HIS PARENTS

THEY HAD WORRIED ABOUT HIM FOR A LONG TIME.

He was one of those ambitious boys the city is full of had the will and desire to work but not the strength, had never been over strong, always pale and anemic, it was up hill work for him to keep up his end either in play or at school.

His mother remarked to one of the neighbors how bright and well her little girl had been looking, she was so rosy cheeked and full of life and good spirits, where before she had been so pale, sluggish and backward about everything.

The girl's mother smiled and said, "Why, that is easy, that child gave her father and me loads of worry, we had tried everything and were about despaired when the farmer who brings in our eggs, told us to try Phosphated Iron, he bet that would do the business, his oldest daughter was just the same, but now looked like a new child and they would never be without a box in the house."

The boy's mother took the tip, and the boy's father heard her praise Phosphated Iron, she says he is full of boyish good spirits and tricks, eats the way all boys should, no more restless nights, sleeps like a log, and now leads his class with ease, where before his work had been an effort and a drag.

It just seems as if the boy's whole system absorbed the Iron he was in such need of it and the Phosphates were just what his overworked little brain needed. It sure made a wonderful change.

Doctors all agree that four-fifths of all the trouble is due to the lack of Iron and Phosphorus. If one has them in their make up they are healthy and strong. Good for both old and young, for anyone run down, anemic or lack of red corpuscles. Get a package today and feel like your old self again.

Special Notice:—To insure your receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put up in capsules only. Do not allow dealers to substitute Tablets or Pills. Evans Drug Store, Newark, O., and leading drug stores everywhere. (Adv.)

DISCUSS SUBWAY AT MEETING TONIGHT; DELAY IS IN SIGHT

The subway committee of the city council tonight will meet in the council chamber to discuss the question of delay in the construction work. The discussion will have to do particularly with the proposal to induce the railroads to construct temporary track on the recently acquired property in Walnut street and along Clinton street, with a view of relieving the congested conditions in the local freight yards.

Officials agree that there is little prospect of getting the actual subway construction under way for some months yet. The greatly increased cost in the price of materials has raised the question of whether it is good business to push the construction under the present conditions of the markets. Steel, concrete and labor are the three important factors in such construction work and conditions in these lines are abnormal now. It is said that if the work was pushed that it is probable that an additional bond issue would be necessary to take care of the increased cost.

All these matters will be discussed at tonight's meeting.

REGISTER KICK AGAINST DUMPING GARBAGE FROM BRIDGE; ICE MEN HIT

A long hoary beard and the snows of many winters have found lodgment in the veteran's hair. But two other aged subjects, but by no means infirm ones, bubbled up again. The Leedale alley and the Holler ditch. Action taken by council last night however sort of anaesthetized these two old friends into a state resembling somnolence at least. The resolution, authorizing the payment of $425 for the Leedale alley was finally adopted though not without opposition and oratory. The fate of the Holler ditch was not so definitely settled however. The councilman experts having stumped the city and county experts on sanitation, agreed to call in a specialist for consultation. And back to this. He's coming all the way from Boston at $100 or more "per come."

But what he doesn't know about sewers and water purification hasn't been discovered and the city dads figure that they'll get a lot more than $100 worth from this specialist on sewage and water supply.

These subjects, together with a few others, like the relative condition of streets in Councilman Curry's ward and Councilman Stasel's ward, the repair of the Central Fire Station, the proper disposal of police officers, the question of markets, the repairing of Pataskala and German streets and other subjects, made the council meeting one of interest—yes, and length, too, thank you.

Regarding the repair or reconstruction of Pataskala and German street much might be said. Mr. Alexander, who is councilman at large, has come to the assistance of Dr. Shirer, in whose ward the streets are located, and who is occasionally distracted from his councilmanic duties by the flapping of the store's wings. Mr. Alexander has directed the searchlight of publicity on the ruins of these two streets. If you don't believe there are rats, try a "fliver" on those streets at a rate exceeding the speed limit by 100 per cent.

Engineer Wells estimated that asphaltic concrete resurfacing would cost $20,000, and the improvement would be permanent. Mr. Alexander learned that repairs could be made for about $400 which would last for two or three years or more. He raised the question of which would be the wiser expenditure of money.

In the matter of markets, the propositions discussed resulted from the appointment of a committee at the last meeting to investigate high prices. Council, by its action, decided to remove all barriers to free competition in the city and by amending an ordinance regulating the selling of food stuffs in the city, removed the restrictions which discouraged stands on the street. Under this new ordinance street stands will be free, the 20 cent fee having been removed by the amendment. It also gives hucksters, or those dealers who do not produce any of their food stuffs, the same rights as are enjoyed by the producers who are not to be taxed in any manner. Mr. Beadle contended that farmers and gardeners should be able to meet all competition since they had no freight to pay on their products.

Not being satisfied with this action, council adopted a resolution calling upon the newspapers, as a matter of patriotic duty, to call the attention of every man, woman and child in Licking county to take notice of the generous action of council in providing the means for producers to sell products at rock-bottom prices to Newark consumers. And we have further evidence of the effort of every one to find one more patriotic duty which the newspapers of the country can perform without compensation while the boys down in Washington are lying awake nights trying to think up some new clause to stick into the revenue bill to add to the tax burdens of the patriotic journalists. But come right along. The news-papers will continue to give evidence that they are patriotic in deeds as well as in words.

Then the old query "how would you like to be the ice man," a query made famous in song some years ago, took on a new meaning when a resolution so hot that it almost melted the ice to which it referred was adopted. It condemned the ice men and their practice of requiring the consumers to purchase $1 boards of tickets before they would be served with ice, and directed the city solicitor to investigate to see if there was not some law violated for which the ice dealer might be punished. The text of the resolution is as follows:

"A resolution, condemning the method of ice dealers for the principled manner in which they conduct their business.

"Be it resolved, that this council emphatically condemns the manner and method of ice dealers in the city in demanding cash in advance of delivery of ice;

"That any dealer of ice who is using the streets of Newark as a means of transportation and refuses to deliver ice to any citizen upon tender of cash for the same, is, in the opinion of council conducting his business in a way absolutely repugnant to public policy.

"That the solicitor be, and is hereby authorized to investigate the methods of ice dealers in conducting their business, and if sufficient evidence be secured to bring criminal or civil proceedings or both against any person or persons found to be violating the laws."

But two citizens were present at Monday night's council meeting when the session was called to order 45 minutes late. The street committee recommended that a street running from Locust to Church, between Second and First streets, be named Bigbee Court in honor of Mayor Bigbee. Councilman Seward doubted that such action would be in honor to the mayor. The report was adopted.

Safety Director Scott submitted a lengthy report regarding the police and fire departments. He urged sufficient appropriations to run both departments efficiently. He also brought to the council's attention the plans for the remodeling of the Central Fire station, commented upon at the last meeting. The report was referred to the finance and safety committees.

Engineer Wells reported the preparation of plans for a sanitary sewer in Vine street. The sewer will cost $141 from foot. He estimated the cost of paving German and Pataskala streets with asphaltic concrete at $31,610. The report was referred to the street committee.

He read a report regarding the employment of a consulting engineer to act with the city and county engineers in the Holler ditch matter. Engineer E. G. Brodbery, who has been commissioned by the government to look after the sanitary matters in an army camp at Boston, recommended that whatever action is taken in connection with this improvement, be considered in its relation with the city sewer system and water purification. He recommended to Mr. Wells that Engineer F. A. Barbour of Boston be employed as consulting engineer. Mr. Wells recommended that the man be employed at a fee of $100 and expenses to look over the situation and address the council and county commissioners. The report was received and filed.

Property owners in Wilson street asked for a sewer between Fifth and Sixth street. Residents in Hudson avenue petitioned council to order the grading and graveling of Hudson avenue and Channel street. Eleven property owners in Vine street filed a protest against the proposed sewer in Vine street.

The Newark Tallow company submitted a proposition to receive garbage collected in the city for disposal to be paid at the rate of $1,000 per year. It was rejected because the city already has signed a contract for garbage disposal.

Councilman Seward offered an ordinance dispensing with bonds now required of light and water plant employees and employees under the city engineer. The ordinance was passed on suspension of rules.

The ordinance to issue bonds in the sum of $6000 to establish a garbage incinerating plant was passed by a vote of five to three. Messrs. Alexander, Keyes and Knauber opposed the measure. Councilman Shirer did not vote, having been excused a few minutes before the vote was taken.

An ordinance amending the ordinance regulating the sale of market products, allowing growers and manufacturers to sell products along the street. The motion to suspend rules was lost by a vote of 6 to 1.

Mr. Alexander offered another ordinance repealing the entire section charging a fee for market stands along certain streets which would permit all dealers, whether hucksters or growers, to sell products on the street. It was passed by a vote of seven to one. Councilman Adams voted against the measure on the ground that it allowed men outside the county to come in and compete with Licking county growers and producers, who, he thought, should be protected.

A resolution by Mr. Adams requested plans for a sewer in Eleventh and Ash streets. It was adopted. A resolution was adopted instructing the county auditor to remit to Emma Bradway an assessment for sewer in Buckingham street which already had been provided with sewer accommodations.

Mr. Knauber submitted a resolution instructing the safety director to prepare plans for the improvement of the central fire station. The resolution was adopted (a suspended rule).

A resolution was adopted authorizing the service director to employ Engineer Barbour for a preliminary consultation regarding sewage disposal and water purification at a cost not to exceed $100 and expenses.

A resolution offered by Messrs. Alexander, Knauber and Seward condemned in drastic terms the present practice of ice dealers in the method of selling ice in the city.

Then council, after some argument, adopted the resolution of authorizing the purchase for $425 of the Leedale alley property in East Newark and open up an alley past the United Brethren church. Councilman Adams and Knauber opposed the measure. Councilman Stasel did not vote. The measure secured the favorable vote of five members, Councilman Shirer being absent.

KAISER'S COUSIN.
George S. Viereck, publisher of "The American Weekly," formerly known as "The Fatherland," once claimed in the New York Times that he is a first cousin of the Kaiser.
"Suppress the German language," declares Mr. Viereck. "Our feet are clamped in the snares of British military." England whose war we are fighting repays us by deserting us at the first opportunity. "the war to make the world safe for democracy becomes a war to make the world safe for British commerce"—these quotations from the Viereck Weekly which as above stated is now called "The American Weekly." Are we to take it that the only true Americans are those who defend the emperor of Germany?
Mr. Viereck's "American Weekly" criticizes the war, the way it is conducted and about everything connected with it. Though the Liberty Bell is a brilliant success, Mr.
Viereck apparently doesn't think so.
He says:
"The Liberty Loan" is a disappointment, in spite of its oversubscription. Being the first loan submitted to the richest nation in the world, it should have been over-subscribed many times. The American people refused to warm up to the loan, because they knew that its proceeds would be used largely to pay the debts of the bankrupt nations of Europe. They refused also to the Allies directly. They did not want to be their backers by indirectly. They did not relish the idea of putting up American dollars to finance liabilities incurred by the Allies over the counter of J. Pierpont Morgan."
What does Viereck hope to accomplish? The American people are united in the prosecution of this war and they are behind the government and the men who are going to the front. Mr. Viereck is no doubt "solid" with Cousin Kaiser, but what's the use?

VENISON FOR MEAT.
A recent writer in the New York Sun, commenting on the need for new sources of food supply, favoring growing venison for meat. He remarks that the flesh of the deer family is most appetizing, and epur-ate, and high priced for its fat. Yet it has never been raised for its food value, and is considered of use purely for sport.
The deer family range through rough lands good only for what timber can be grown. Deer can get their living there, and add to the product of this only slightly used soil. This writer notes that under domestication elk increases rapidly and that 99 per cent of the female produce healthy offspring.
In states that have been protecting deer for game purposes, it is found that an open game season lasting a week or two with gunners in every thicket to keep them down.
Enormous quantities of the most tasteful meat are dragged home in triumph and are a prize in this day of scarce cattle. No costly burns or expensive feeds have to be provided.
The objection will be raised that wherever deer are protected near to a farming country, they come out of their cover and do much damage to crops. Fruit trees and a favorite food for them, and they will strip a promising orchard of buds in a short time. The state of Massachusetts has for fifteen years protected deer and a very large amount of deer meat has been secured by its hunters.
But to recompense the farmers to the protection, the state has provided large sums in damages to the food purchasers, which must largely offset the value of the meat.
Of course deer might be confined within their ranges by systems of fencing. Anyone who ever saw an athletic deer makes its peculiarly elastic high leap in the air will recognize that it must be a very high fence. The subject is worth consideration in a time when we pay high prices for tough old beef infinitely less desirable than deer meat.

OUTLOOK IS GOOD.
One feature of real encouragement, writes Henry Clews, the New York banker in his weekly report on business and industrial conditions, is the last government crop report. It suggested a crop of 3,124,000,000 bushels of corn, which almost equals the bumper crop of 1912, when the price was about 80c, as against nearly $2.00 now. This enormous increase in the money value of corn will be a powerful stimulus in the West. The wheat crop has also much improved in condition, indicating 22,000,000 bushels more than a month ago. The most sensational gain was in the potato crop, which promises 452-600,000 bushels, compared with 285,000,000 last year. All things considered, the agricultural outlook is good. No serious shortages are in prospect, and high prices amply offset increased costs of production.

WASTE NOT, WANT NOT.
Those who heeded the advice of the United States Department of Agriculture to plant radishes this year are now wondering how best to preserve their surplus fruits and vegetables. The specialists of the department, who have tried out various methods for canning, preserving, drying, pickling, and making jam, have recently issued bulletins showing how this work may be done successfully. Anyone can have the publications for the asking, so ho-norance of the proper procedure will not serve as a legitimate excuse for allowing any garden produce to spoil this year.
Farmers' Bulletin 833 contains directions for canning by the over-period cold-pack method all kinds of fruits and vegetables as well as fruit jams.

AN EPITAPH FOR WILLIAM.

(Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.)
It begins to look as though the collection of Hohenzollern statues in Berlin were finished. The Kaiser may never take his place among his illustrious ancestors, seated on a horse, mounted, because of his withered arm, from the wrong side. The greatest killer of them all may never stand in marble with the other great killers of Germany, who are the subjects of most of Berlin's sculpture.
But who would not be willing to concede him the glory of a statue to be permitted to write the lines beneath it? Of course the historians of the next century will write William's epitaph but it certainly could be done with more apt phrasing by a contemporary—somebody, say, who had escaped from the Lusitania and witnessed the wreck of Belgium.
Taking the old English formula for epitaphs, "Here lies the body," fancy depicts some queer doggerel for the Kaiser. And why not? Into the few lines of an epitaph can be packed the kernel of a world's thought about the subject. Opinion about William is slowly crystalliz-ing in America—it did so abroad long ago because no ocean saved him from the terror spread and because he was marked as a man whose de-lusions might be serious long before the war. European peoples could write his epitaph in one breath.
Here we are rapidly approaching the same happy frame of mind when there shall be no differences about William. If everybody sat down to write epitaphs with few exceptions they would agree in spirit.
What is a good line for the Kaiser's stone assuming he shall have one? Who can put the thought into words, touched with a grain of humor, the saving American grace?
Try it and see how nearly one's opinion of the great offender has got down to a score of words. One or two old-fashioned epitaphs suggest themselves; perhaps some better ones will be turned out: Here lies the body of William Second.
With the U. S. A. he had not reckoned.
Here lies the body of Kaiser Bill:
If we hadn't stepped in, he'd be fighting still.
Here lies the body of Bill the Kaiser: He tried to be it; he should have been wiser.
There is one, not rhymed, that has a slightly different appeal. "Here lies William II, German Emperor; he took himself too seriously."

(Philadelphia Record.)
For those who wish to see Germany liberalized and democratized, as an important step toward peace and a more harmonious world in the future, it is not reassuring to learn that one of the most potent influences that brought about the downfall of von Bethmann-Hollweg as operative of the crown prince. The Kaiser is reported to have summoned General Ludendorff and Marshal von Hindenburg to his crown council, and these, judging by the result, added their voices to that of "little Willie" in demanding the chancellor's official head. Whether all this means that hereafter the war crowd is to be even more powerful than in the past only future events can disclose.
Certainly there is nothing in the news that comes from Berlin to indicate any sweeping political reforms.
The Prussian electoral laws may be amended as a sop to the populace, but responsible parliamentary government, with ministers accountable to the reichstag and not to the Kaiser, is still to be a far distant ideal. It is not to be expected that the reactionary crown prince and the two generals in highest command will look with favor upon any changes that may diminish their power, at least during the continuance of the war.
Dr. Michaelis, the new chancellor, seems to be a typical bureaucrat. He is reported to hold liberal views, but this may be doubted. Even if true, it is not unusual for persons with liberal ideas to shed them quickly when entrusted with power. So long as the Kaiser, the crown prince, von Hindenburg and Ludendorff continue as the "big four" in Germany no great immediate change may be expected. It is only fair, however, to give the new chancellor the benefits of all doubt. The world in general will hope that he may prove a great reformer, but it will not be vastly disappointed if he shall not.

HAVE A CARE, SENATORS!

(New York Herald.)
It cannot be believed that the senate of the United States is so apathetic to the interests of this nation as to adopt the resolution of Senator Penrose calling for the making public of the text of official reports of Rear Admiral Gleaves bearing upon the attacks of submarines upon American transports, or of the text of any other official dispatches.
To make public official dispatches would be playing directly into the hands of Germany. In all probability the dispatches of Rear Admiral Gleaves, whether sent by wireless or by cable, were "picked up" from the air or by the German spies who seem to have access to official documents at Washington. To make public the translated text of the Gleaves dispatches would be to furnish Germany with a key to the American navy's code.
That doubtless would be much appreciated by Germany, but it might spell disaster for the United States.

I. W. W. PROBLEM.

(Springfield Republican.)
How to deal with the labor warfare of the I. W. W. at this time is, confessedly a difficult question.
The leaders cannot be influenced by appeal to patriotism in a period of foreign war for they are without patriotism. They frankly regard any sentiment such as love of country as "rot" and undoubtedly they would as soon live under the Kaiser as under the Constitution of the United States. The more con-tractive labor organizations are re-tractive and moderate in their relations

(New York Medical Journal.)
Some of the clergymen of Los Angeles object to the distribution of tobacco among the soldiers at the front by the Red Cross Society.
While the grounds for this objection are not stated in the newspaper reports they can easily be inferred. It is hardly likely that they will carry any weight with the Red Cross authorities.
The intense nervous strain imposed by the conditions at the front in the present war requires that everything possible should be done to allay nervous irritation. Amusements for the men when relieved of duty at the immediate front are recognized as an important factor in preventing neuroses. Many of the men in the army are confirmed smokers, and to deny these men tobacco is to induce a degree of nervous irritation which will materially impair their efficiency. It would be the height of folly, standpoint, to deny tobacco to the men at the front.
Much to their credit, the women of Los Angeles who are prominent in relief work have practically unanimously favored providing tobacco along with other comforts for men at the front.

OUR SOLDIER BOYS.

(Ohio State Journal.)
There are thousands of soldiers in town, just out of their homes, their schools, their farms, their shops and stores. They have entered upon a new career. They have offered their lives for the integrity of the republic. There can be no higher mission for a true man. All these soldier boys are entitled to the gratitude of the whole people, and it should be shown, by every courtesy and kindness that it is possible to extend. Every man of them should be shown that the people appreciate and honor them. These are lonely days for them. The breaking of home ties is a sad experience. They need a kind word, a friendly recognition, a gentle reminder that they are among friends, and a fervent "God bless you" whenever you meet them or bid them farewell. Whenever we see these boys we think they are bigger than any of us for they stand for the divine qualities of courage, devotion and sacrifice.

Spirit of the Press

Insect Pests.
The patriotic emergency gardener is learning these days, some practical facts about bugs. His general idea, too, of the extent of the insect population is undergoing revision. Insects he finds are more numerous than he realized. Heretofore, he has seen amusement in the comic artists' picture of the fanzatic strutting valiantly with a gigantic potato bug—that was the sort of thing to move him to laughter. It does not move him to laughter now. He has learned a few material facts about bugs and he has come, in the light of his newly-acquired knowledge, to view bugs seriously.—Indianapolis News.

Routine Indian Wild.

Supposing that you read in your newspaper that a ship arrived at "an Atlantic port" and that the men on the ship reported their opinion that they had sunk a submarine on the way over, and that just after you had finished reading this and other news, the postman arrived with a bundle of fresh London newspapers, sent on as usual from New York. Would you have any difficulty in knowing what Atlantic port that ship had arrived the day before? Some routine matters have sense in them, at least, under the conditions and circumstances then existing. But to go on with the routine formula then it amounts to nothing, is to mutilate the wisdom of the parrot, who says the same things over and over again without the slightest idea whether they fit or not.—Hartford Courant.

Two Ways Open.

Not all of the increase in prices for foodstuffs is due to deliberate restriction. The greater part arises from the absence of any intellectual attempt to adjust the machinery of production, distribution and consumption to the abnormal strain now upon it by the world at war. We are going through here exactly the experience which Germany, Great Britain and France have passed through. In the case of Germany the government showed forthright and determined action. In the case of Great Britain and France it has been a series of measures which could not be carried out until the sufferings of the people had forced the hand of the government. We can handle the example of Germany and avoid many hardships if we can follow in the footsteps of our Allies, who in Granyville, July 17.

At the union services in the Baptist church, Sunday evening, the pastors of three churches assisted. Rev. Otto Giesen offered prayer, Rev. E. D. Soloists for the day were Mrs. E. P. Johnston, soprano, and Miss Beers, contralto.

Hoeckes and Their Origin.

The hoeckes is the most common form of corn bread found in the south. It was named by the southern slaves in early slavery times. The women slaves had cotton and rice by the task. When a task was begun in the morning it was completed before going back home. Sometimes they would get hungry; then the hoe was detached from the helve, a fire started and a hoeckes was cooked then and there upon the hoe. It was discovered by the planters that meal cooked thus was palatable, and the hoeckes was henceforth made part and parcel of a complete plantation dinner.

For a hoeckes take one pint of sifted meal, one-half teaspoonful of salt; add lard or fried meat grease and mix with enough lukewarm water to form a thin paste. Spread on a hot and greasy griddle. Bake both sides brown. Serve hot with vegetables, fish, bacon, pork, etc.

For corn pone use the above formula, but make the dough or paste thicker. Make into loaves and bake in a hot oven.—A. W. Brabham in New York Sun.

East Indian English.

A railway surgeon in India sends some curious messages he has received from time to time from the company's employees:

1. Honored Sir—I am suffering from fever and swelling of my whole body, and my legs, too, are swelled up. Please take trouble to see me.

2. I beg to inform you that I am suffering by too much hot fever, but just now it is subsided somewhat, and there is much perspiration, and my legs are trembling like riding horse. First comes cold fever and then it becomes hotting. Inside is somewhat defected.

3. I tell you truly, sir, that I am really sick. Mr. Sprunk has refused to leave, and if you don't certify I will die like a dog, and my father will be issueless.

4. Sir—Now I pray that you will make me cure soon because I am a very familiar man.

5. Wife lingering near to next world. Come soon to prevent goodbye.—London Standard.

Fame of Arras.

The history of Arras, France, dates back beyond the Christian era, when it was the chief town of a Gallic tribe known as Nemetacum or Nemetocenna, but its present name is derived from that of the tribe. During the French revolution Arras suffered grievously, thanks to the cruelty of her native son, Joseph Lebon, who organized and directed the reign of terror there. Maximilien Robespierre and his younger brother, Augustin, were also born in this city. It is interesting to recall in view of his subsequent sanguinary career as a member of the commune and of the committee of public safety, responsible for converting the streets of Paris into rivers of blood fed by the guillotine, that as a young man Robespierre resigned his office as criminal judge in Arras rather than sentence a guilty man to death.

Shearing Sheep in Syria.

The manner of shearing sheep in Syria and all Asiatic Turkey does not differ materially from the ancient methods of the people as applied to practically every other vocation. While the sheep industry is one of the oldest in the country, having existed for centuries in the same pastures where the ancestors of the present herders also tended flocks, there does not appear to have been any improvement in the manner of shearing or breeding the sheep. Shearing is still accomplished in the crudest way, the workers always leaving a considerable amount of wool on the animal, while the fleece removed is cut most unevenly. The shearers frequently cut great holes in the skins of the sheep, which by the use of modern shearing machines could easily be avoided.

Quick Work.

Two insurance men were bragging of the promptness with which their respective companies paid up. Said one of them: "The man died and I handed the check to his family within an hour of his death."

"That's nothing," said the other scornfully. "Why, a man fell from an upper story of one of our buildings, and I handed him the check as he went past my window."—London Mail.

Got Through.

Among other startling statements in her composition on "A Railway Journey" the following was made by a little girl:

"You must get a ticket, which is a piece of paper, and you give it to a man, who cuts a hole in it and lets you pass through."

Perfectly Natural.

"Why does that young man reach in his pocket and draw out a package of papers as soon as he begins to talk to any one?"

"That's a mere matter of habit. You see, he is a life insurance agent."

Revised.

"Did he tell you all the bright things his youngsters have been saying?"

"Yes."

"What did you say?"

"I told him children should be seen and not heard from."—Detroit Free Press.

CREDIT NEWARK QUOTA WITH 112; OTHERS PROTEST

pi, Missouri, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Virginia.
The group includes the states having the largest population and probably the total population of all ten represents somewhere near half of the population of the entire country. The fact that reports from only 643 additional districts of the 4553 are missing, however, shows that even in the ten states the work is well advanced and each has only a few districts behind schedule. The entire list may be completed today.

General Crowder declined to make any comment on the statements made yesterday in the senate attacking the fairness of the census bureau population estimates upon which the allotment of quotas under the draft law is based.

Other officials pointed out, however, that the revised estimates of the census bureau were not intended to fix the actual population of any community. The estimates are prefaced with the statement that they are for use in connection with the draft only. They are based upon registration and represent the distribution over the country of men between the ages fixed in the draft accounted for by the concentration of men of the draft age there for work in munition or other plants.

TROOPS TOBACCOLESS BUT FOR ARMY GIRL

Fund Will Supply Transports, as She Did Those In Which Pershing's Men Sailed.

The timely act of the daughter of a prominent United States army officer, which saved the troops of the Pershing expedition from making their hazardous ocean trip without cigarette "mak-in's" or pipe fillings or a cigar in short, "without a thing to smoke"—has started an organization to be known as "an army girl's transport tobacco fund." Application for articles of incorporation have been made in the supreme court of New York.

Uncle Sam doesn't supply soldiers with tobacco as a ration. One of the officers told this to the "army girl." There wasn't time to collect funds; there wasn't time to cut army red tape. She went straight to a banker she knew, who obtained for her credit with a tobacco company. In a few hours huge shipments of tobacco were being taken aboard the transports, and soldiers, marines and sailors were cheering for the army girl. Scores of officers have written her how keenly every man of the expedition appreciated what she had done.

Ashore the news started an organization which is to see that supplies of tobacco are aboard every transport. Edwin Arden is to act as general manager; Miss M. S. Carson, secretary, and Major Ernest K. Coulter, treasurer. R. L. Bigelow and Captain Edward R. Close are also members. All contributions to this fund should be sent to Major Coulter at 25 Pine street, New York city.

Got Dollar Back After Fourteen Years.
Fourteen years ago Washington Bureau of the Interior, had accidentally let a silver dollar drop between the walls of the Slickman food barn. Burrel never forgot that one. The other day workmen raised the food building. Burrel was on hand and found his dollar, somewhat tarnished, but still worth a hundred cents.

Rule of the Romanoffs.
Many curious instances are given in the history of the Romanoffs as to how heirs apparent have been cheated of their rights. Catherine the Great exercised her right of bequeathing the scepter to whom she thought fit. She appointed her grandson, Alexander, instead of his father, her only son, Paul. Paul, however, destroyed the document before it could be put into execution.

Earlier still Peter the Great left the scepter to Empress Catherine I, a woman of peasant birth, who had been a chambermaid at an inn. His grandchild, the sole offspring of his murdered son and rightful heir, was thus disinherited. Many other instances have been cited of depriving legitimate heirs of their rights. Sometimes it was malice, expediency in other cases and very often prejudice.

Car Paul, for instance, was on the eve of sending his two eldest sons to Siberia to favor his third son, Nicholas. Paul was assassinated by the authority of the two sons before he could carry out his plan, and thus one of the most terrible chapters was added to Russian imperial history.—Pearson's Weekly.

A STATEMENT FROM THE GAS COMPANY

Inasmuch as recent publicity concerning the gas situation, is not sufficiently detailed to convey a clear understanding of its full import, and might result in unduly alarming the gas-using public concerning next winter's supply, the following statement from our company to its patrons will no doubt be appreciated.

The occasional shortages in gas supply, which unfortunately occurred during a few days, or parts of days last winter, were caused primarily by a combination of conditions over which this company has no control, namely:

1. Abnormal demand because of unusually severe and prolonged cold weather.
2. Depletion of gas wells and fields, because of these heavy demands.
3. High price and shortage of coal, which forced thousands of domestic consumers to use gas for heat, who formerly used it for cooking and lighting only, thus greatly increasing the usual requirements.

Our company, fully realizing the gravity of the situation, promptly discontinued all large consumption such as industrial, commercial, public buildings, etc., and not only exerted itself to the utmost to meet the unusual requirements, and supply the immediate needs of the public to the best of its ability, but at once inaugurated, and has since continued unremittently, the leasing of large areas of additional territory, the drilling of a far greater number of new wells than during any previous period of its history, the construction of an additional compressing station, the enlarging of others, the extension of its field lines, and the general betterment of its facilities for the production and transportation of gas.

In short, though confronted with almost insurmountable difficulties in procuring pipe and other necessary equipment and materials, it has done and is doing everything possible to improve the service for the coming winter.

The enormously increased expense and investment, both of a temporary and permanent character, involved in these operations, and conducted in the face of advances in prices of materials ranging from 100 to 500 per cent, can hardly be appreciated by those not actively engaged; and the rates now prevailing in the various communities our company serves, do not and can not properly compensate us for these unusual and extremely large expenditures.

At no far distant date relief must be afforded us in an upward revision of rates.

We can not in the face of these high costs and increasing difficulty in procuring fresh supplies of gas continue this expensive work indefinitely or for perhaps beyond the present season, without obtaining additional revenue with which to meet these expenditures.

We are not asking the consumer to bear all the burden. We are bearing the major portion of it ourselves, but we must soon have some assistance from our consumers in carrying their fair share of the load, thus helping us to find gas, if possible, for them, and bring to them in sufficient quantities to meet their needs.

Unless this can be accomplished, the ultimate outcome will be an insufficient supply for all.

This, however, is a matter for subsequent consideration, inasmuch as the purpose of this statement is to frankly advise our consumers at this time of the possibilities and probabilities with respect to next winter's supply.

It should always be borne in mind that the risk of temporary interruption of service is inseparable from the natural gas business, but our consumers may rest assured that this company will use its utmost endeavors to lessen this risk. It is just as much interested that its consumers get gas, as its consumers can possibly be to get it, and when called upon it is expected to give, and does give, all it has in response to public need.

While in our operations to date this year we have been quite successful in developing new production, and may possibly be fortunate enough to procure a supply sufficient for all requirements, the demands upon us in winter are so great and the variations in temperature so extreme and often so sudden, that it would not be fair to our consumers to give positive assurance that an ample supply of gas will be constantly available.

The situation is further complicated by a continuation of the unsettled coal conditions and prices which were mainly responsible for last winter's shortage, and, in addition, the activities incident to the national preparations for war may place new obligations upon us in the way of increased requirements for gas by our Government.

Notwithstanding this, it must be admitted that the service rendered by Natural Gas Companies during the past winter, both as regards its dependability and its comparatively low cost, was far superior to that of any competing fuel, and our consumers may rest assured that this Company will continue to use its utmost endeavors to similarly meet the requirements of the coming winter. However, neither the user of coal nor gas can at all times depend upon a continuous supply, as the experience of the past year has amply proven, and it is always the part of wisdom to provide an emergency supply of some other fuel and a means of using it, so that relief from temporary discomfort can be secured in the event of shortages. We recommend that this be done wherever possible as a precautionary measure.

Users of coal-fired furnaces or boilers, in which either gas or coal are now used, can, at a very reasonable expense, arrange for the installation of an auxiliary furnace or boiler, which, when installed, and connected to the present one, will permit of the use of gas in one or coal in the other, or both may be operated at the same time, and thus afford complete protection against heating discomfort at all times. Our local offices will be pleased to advise regarding this feature.

To our industrial consumers, we would confirm previous advices that the date of discontinuance of service as heretofore announced, namely, between October 15th and November 1st, will undoubtedly be necessary, excepting perhaps for some few limited purposes, and that arrangements looking toward a supply of other fuels and the installation of other equipment for its use, if necessary should be entered into at once, to the end that the discontinuance of the use of gas for industrial purposes and the substitution of other fuels at the time indicated, may be accomplished without interference with the operation of such plants.

HERE'S SIMPLE WAY TO CAN FOODS FOR USE NEXT WINTER

Miss Jessie Whitacre of the extension department of Ohio State University, conducted a demonstration at the high school, Monday afternoon, before a crowd of interested women, who came under the invitation of the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense.

Mrs. Henry Fleck, local chairman, introduced the speaker. Miss Whitacre preceded her demonstration by telling of the different methods used up to this time, as drying, hot pack or open kettle method, etc.

The method Miss Whitacre employed is known as the cold pack method and has been successfully used by many housewives. The demonstrator used green string beans, black raspberries and baby beets for her demonstration.

For Canning Green Beans.

Prepare beans as for eating, by stringing and breaking.

Scald in boiling water by placing beans in cheesecloth, thus preventing handling. Allow the beans to boil several minutes, remove and dip in cold water. Remove from cheesecloth and pack in jar which has been sterilized in hot water. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt to 1 pint jar beans. Fill spaces with hot water, and partially seal. Place in hot water bath on false bottom, and boil 2 hours continuously. Remove and seal.

For Canning Raspberries.

Prepare fruit as for table-use.

Place fruit, uncooked, into jars and fill spaces with hot syrup made by using 1-2 cups sugar to 1 cup water. Partially seal, place in hot water bath, on false bottom, sterilize (boil) 12 minutes, remove and seal.

For Canning Baby Beets.

Brush to remove earth, leave roots and parts of tops. Scald in hot water, remove and dip into cold water. Remove skin, place in sterilized jar, add salt as for beans and fill spaces with hot water. Partially seal and sterilize in hot water bath two hours. Remove and seal.

For Canning Peas.

The same method is used as for beans. In canning corn fill the jars until 3-4 inch is left at top, allowing room for corn to swell and cork in hot bath three hours instead of two.

In canning rhubarb, gooseberries or fruits containing much acid, a sweeter syrup should be used, by allowing the syrup to boil longer.

Next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Miller in Frank will be given in food canning, under the supervision of Miss Carrie Zentmyer, instructor of Domestic Art in the Newark schools, and a graduate of Ohio State University.

DR. SPARKS REVIEWS WAR NOVEL MUCH TALKED OF

Probably the most outstanding writer of fiction today, and the one who is most widely read, is H. G. Wells. English writer. Until he came into prominence, George Bernard Shaw, was perhaps, the best known writer of the time, but since the publication of "Mr. Wells' latest book of fiction, "Mr. Britling Sees It Through," he has rather taken Mr. Shaw's place, although some critics say that we of America are taking Mr. Wells more seriously than English people.

It was this book, which ran as a serial some months ago in Collier's, and which has attracted such wide attention since the United States has come into the world-war, that was taken by Dr. L. C. Sparks, of the First M. E. church, Sunday night, as a review.

Dr. Sparks divided the book into three parts after introducing the principal characters of the story. Mr. Britling is a typical English countryman, owning an estate, outside London, and writes during his leisure moments for magazines. His home-life is described; the members of his family, of which a son Hugh, is the principal character. Then there is in the family a tutor, Heinrich, a German, who has become especially fond of Hugh; an American, who Elaborate plans have been prepared for the rebuilding and extension of Denison University, which, when carried out, will make this institution one of the most modern university plants in the country. The plans devised will include many of the present buildings and a number of new ones. One of the attractive features of the proposed extensions, is the improved accommodations for the athletic department of Denison University which has been highly developed under the direction of Walter J. Livingston who was this summer made a professor of athletics. The new football and baseball fields with the running track will be laid out north of the hill on which many of the college buildings stand, and it will be reached from the village through a tunnel under the hill. The diagram above shows the layout lying north of Broadway. The street intersection in the lower right hand corner is the corner of Broadway and Main streets. The tunnel under the hill is shown in dotted line leading north from the end of Main street. The improvements contemplated involve the expenditure of more than a million dollars.

spends some time with Mr. Britling, and who is typical of the American people, and several other characters, not so prominent, but typical of the classes of people.

The first part of the story is the reluctance of Mr. Britling to see that war really will come, in spite of the fact that Germany has been preparing for forty years. Second, his inability to see that it will affect any one outside those who are really fighting—the country has been at peace; peace has been signed; and all things coming to a happy end.

Third, the discovery by Mr. Britling that the war not only affects the "man in the trenches" but everyone—even himself, who finds that his own son Hugh, must respond to the call of the colors.

The attitude of England and America is brought out by Mr. Wells, who says that these two countries are alike and that we have not been awakened by the sinking of the Lusitania and by the outrages to the Belgium people as much as we were by the sinking of the Maine.

Probably the most outstanding feature of Dr. Sparks' review was his statement in regard to Hugh and Heinrich. Heinrich received his call to fight for his country, as did Hugh, but they went, not with hatred in their hearts, and not wanting to kill, but each boy was in the trenches, because a few crowned heads of Europe had demanded it of them.

The letters of Hugh to his father from the trenches, are interesting parts of the story.

Dr. Sparks ended his review by saying that there are millions of "Mr. Britlings" in America today who are looking at their "Hugh's," but are sending them to the colors, and are proud of them.

Finally, Mr. Britling, through it all, comes to see how it is that there is a Divine Purpose and out of it all will come a republic of the world, or a "United States of the World."

No. 2. The Bomb Raid

By Sergeant Alexander McClintock, D. C. M., 8th Overseas Bati., Canadian Gren. Guards.

Copyright, 1917, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Sergeant McClintock is an American boy of Lexington, Ky., who has seen service in France, was decorated for bravery, wounded, invalided home and now is returning to accept a commission. This is the second article in the series. In the first article he described his training up to the point where he reached the front line trenches.

WHEN we took our position in the front line trenches in Belgium we relieved the Twenty-sixth Canadian battalion. Scouts from that organization came back to the villages of Dinkelsbusch and Renningheist to tell us how glad they were to see us and to show us the way in. As we proceeded overland, before reaching the communication trenches at the front, these scouts paid us the hospitable attention due strangers—that is, one of them, leading a platoon, would say:

"Next 200 yards in machine gun range. Keep quiet, don't run and be ready to drop quick if you are warned." There was one scout to each platoon, and we followed him single file, most of the time along roads or well worn paths, but sometimes through thickets and ragged fields. Every now and then the scout would yell at us to drop, and down we'd go on our stomachs, while away off in the distance we could hear the "put-put" of machine guns, the first sound of hostile firing that had ever reached our ears.

Nevertheless, when our various platoons had all got into the front reserve trenches, at about two hours after midnight, we learned that the first blood of our battalion had been spilled. Two men had been wounded, though neither fatally. Our own stretcher bearers took our wounded back to the field hospital at Dinkelsbusch. The men of the Twenty-sixth battalion spent the rest of the night instructing us and then left us to hold the position. We were as nervous as a lot of cats, and it seemed to me that the Germans must certainly know that they could come over and walk right through us, but outside of a few casualties from sniping, such as the one that befell the Fourteenth platoon man, which I have told about, nothing very alarming happened the first day and night, and by that time we had got steady on our job. We held the position for twenty-six days, which is the longest period that any Canadian or British organization has ever remained in a front line trench.

In none of the stories I've read have I ever seen trench fighting as it was carried on in Belgium adequately described. You see, you can't get much of an idea about a thing like that making a quick tour of the trenches under official direction and escort as the newspaper and magazine writers do. I couldn't undertake to tell anything worth while about the big issues of the war, but I can describe how soldiers have to learn to fight in the trenches, and I think a good many of our young fellows have that to learn now. "Over there" they don't talk of peace or even of tomorrow. They sit back and take it.

We always held the fire trench as lightly as possible, because it is a demonstrated fact that the front ditch cannot be successfully defended in a determined attack. The thing we did and the thing to do is to be ready to jump on to the enemy as soon as he has got into your front trench and is fighting on ground that you know and he doesn't and knock so many kinds of tar out of him that he'll have to pull his load for a spot that isn't so warm. That system worked first rate with us. During the day we had only a few men in the fire trench. If an attack is coming in daylight these are always plenty of time to get ready for it. At night we kept prepared for trouble all the time. We had a night sentry on each firing step and a man sitting at his feet to watch him to see he wasn't secretly sniped. Then we had a sentry in each "bay" of the trench to take messages.

Orders didn't permit the man on the firing step or the man watching him to leave post on any excuse whatever during their two hour "spell" of duty. Hanging on a string, at the elbow of each sentry on the fire step was a siren whistle or an empty shell case and a bit of iron with which to hammer on it. This, whichever it might be, was for the purpose of spreading the alarm in case of a gas attack. Also we had sentries in "listening posts," at various points from twenty to fifty yards out in "No Man's Land." These men blackened their faces before they went "over the top" and then lay in shell holes or natural hollows. There was always two of them, a bayonet man and a bomber. From the listening post a wire ran back to the fire trench to be used in signaling. In the trench a man sat with this wire wrapped around his hand. One pull meant "All O. K.," two pulls, "I'm coming in," three pulls, "Enemy in sight," and four pulls, "Sound gas alarm." The fire step in a trench is a shelf on which soldiers stand to look out and shoot between the sand bags on top.

In addition to these men, we had patrols and scouts out in "No Man's Land," the greater part of the night, with orders to gain any information possible which might be of value to battalion, brigade, division or general headquarters. They reported on the condition of the Germans' barbed wire, the location of machine guns and other little things like that which might be of interest to some commanding officer twenty miles back. Also they were ordered to make every effort to capture any of the enemy's scouts or patrols, so that we could get information from them. One of the interesting moments in this work came when a star shell caught you out in an open spot. If you moved you were gone. I've seen men stand on one foot for the thirty seconds during which a star shell will burn. Then men scouts or patrols met in "No Man's Land" they always had to fight it out with bayonets. One single shot would be the signal for artillery fire and would mean the almost instant annihilation of the men on both sides of the fight. Under the necessities of this war many of our men have been killed by our own shell fire.

The Daylight Hour.

At a little before daybreak came "stand-to," when everybody got buttoned up and ready for business because at that hour most attacks begin, and also that was the regular time for a dose of "morning and evening hate," otherwise a good, lively fifteen minutes of shell fire. We had some casualties every morning and evening, and the stretcher bearers used to get ready for them as a regular matter of course. For fifteen minutes at dawn and dusk the Germans used to send over "whizzbangs," "coal boxes" and "mine-throwers" (shells from trench mortars) in such a generous way that it looked as if they liked to shoot 'em off, whether they hit anything or not. You could always hear the "heavy stuff" coming, and we paid little attention to it, as it was used in efforts to reach the batteries back of our lines. The poor old town of Dinkelsbusch got the full benefit of it. When a shell would strike its way over, some one would say, "There goes the express for Dinkelsbusch," and a couple of seconds later, when some prominent landmark of Dinkelsbusch would disintegrate with a loud detonation, some one else would remark:

"Train's arrived!"

About the only amusement we had during our long stay in the front trenches was to sit with our backs against the rear wall and shoot at the rats running along the parapet. Poor Macfarlane, with a flash of the old burr which he had before the war, told a "bookie" that the trench rats were so big that he saw one of them trying to eat his greatcoat. They used to run over our faces when we were sleeping in our dugouts, and I've seen them in bayonet swarms burrowing into the shallow graves of the dead. Most of the soldiers' legs are scarred to the knees with bites.

The one thing of which we constantly lived in fear was a gas attack. I used to wake in the middle of the night in a cold sweat dreaming that I heard the clatter and whistle blowing all along the line which meant that the gas was coming. And finally I really did hear the terrifying sound, just at a moment when it couldn't have sounded worse. I was in charge of the daily ration detail, sent back about ten miles to the point of nearest approach of the transport lorries to carry in rations, ammunition and sand bags to the front trenches. We had a lot of trouble returning with our loads. Passing a point which was called Shrapnel Corner, because the Germans had precise range of it, we were caught in machine gun fire and had to lie on our stomachs for twenty minutes, during which we lost one man, wounded. I sent him back and went on with my party, only to run into another machine gun shower a half mile farther on. While we were lying down to escape this a concealed British battery of fire inch guns, about which we knew nothing, opened up right over our heads. It shook us up and scared us so that some of our party were now worse off than the man who had been hit and carried to the rear. We finally got together and went on. When we were about a mile behind the reserve trench, stumbling in the dark through the last aid most dangerous path overland, we heard a lone siren whistle, followed by a wave of metallic hammering and wild tooting which seemed to spread over all of Belgium a mile ahead of us. All any of us could say was:

"Gas!"

All you could see in the dark was a collection of white and frightened faces. Every trembling finger seemed awkward as a thumb as we got out our gas masks and helmets and put them on, following directions as nearly as we could. I ordered the men to sit still and sent two forward to notify me from headquarters when the gas alarm was over. They lost their way and were not found for two days. We sat there for an hour, and then I ventured to take my mask off. As nothing happened, I ordered the men to do the same. When we got into the trenches with our packs we found that the gas alarm had been one of Fritz's jokes. The first sirens had been sounded in the German lines, and there hadn't been any gas.

Our men evened things up with the Germans, however, the next night. Some of our scouts crawled clear up to the German barbed wire, ten yards in front of the enemy fire trench, tied empty jam tins to the barbed wire and then, after attaching small telephone wires to the barbed strands, crawled back to our trenches. When they started pulling the telephone wires the empty tins made a clatter right under Fritz's nose. Immediately the Germans opened up with all their machine gun and rifle fire, began bombing the spot from which the noise came and sent up "S O S" signals for artillery fire along a mile of their line. They fired a $10,000 salute and lost a night's sleep over the noise made by the discarded containers of 5 shillings' worth of jam. It was a good tonic for the Tommies.

rear for a week's instruction practice. Having only a slight idea of what we were going to try to do we felt very jolly about the whole enterprise starting off. We were camped in an old barn, with several special instruction officers in charge. We had oral instruction the first day, while sappers dug and built an exact duplicate of the section of the German trenches which we were to raid—that is, it was exact except for a few details. Certain "skeleton trenches" in the practice section were dug simply to fool the German aviators. If a photograph taken back to German headquarters had shown an exact duplicate of a German trench section suspicion might have been aroused and our plans revealed. We were constantly warned about the skeleton trenches and told to remember that they did not exist in the German section where we were to operate. Meanwhile our practice section was changed a little several times, because aerial photographs showed that the Germans had been renovating and making some additions to the trenches in which we were to have our frolic with them.

We had oral instruction, mostly during the day, because we didn't dare let the German aviators see us practicing a bomb raid. All night long, sometimes until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, we rehearsed that raid, just as carefully as a company of star actors would rehearse a play. At first there was a disposition to have sport out of it.

"Well," some chap would say, rolling into the hay all tired out, "I got killed six times tonight. Spouse'll be eight times tomorrow night."

One man insisted that he had discovered in one of our aerial photographs a German burying money, and he carefully examined each new picture, so that he could be sure of finding the dough and digging it up. The grave and serious manner of our officers, however, the exhaustive care with which we were drilled and, more than all, the approach of the time when we were to "go over the top" drove all sport out of our minds, and I can say for myself that the very thought of the undertaking as the fatal night drew near sent shivers up and down my spine.

A bombing raid, something originated in warfare by the Canadians, is not intended for the purpose of holding ground, but to gain information, to do as much damage as possible and to keep the enemy in a state of nervousness. In this particular raid the chief object was to gain information. Our high command wanted to know what troops were opposite us, and what troops had been there. We were expected to get this information from prisoners and from buttons and papers off of the Germans we might kill. It was believed that troops were being relieved from the big tent show up at the Somme and sent to our side show in Belgium for rest. Also it was suspected that artillery was being withdrawn from the Somme. Especially we were anxious to bring back prisoners.

In civilized war a prisoner can be compelled to tell only his name, rank and religion. But this is not a civilized war, and there are ways of making prisoners talk. One of the most effective ways—quite humane—is to tie a prisoner fast, head and foot, and then tickle his bare feet with a feather. More severe measures have frequently been used—the water cure, for instance—but I'm bound to say that nearly all the German prisoners I saw were quite loquacious and willing to talk, and the accuracy of their information, when later confirmed by raids, was surprising. The iron discipline which turns them into mere children in the presence of their officers seemed to make them subservient and obedient to the officers who commanded us. I mean, of course, the privates. In this way the system worked against the fatterhead. Captured German officers, especially Prussians, were a nasty lot. We never tried to get information from them, for we knew they would lie happily and very intelligently—well instructed in the art.

At last came the night when we were to go "over the top" across No Man's Land, and have a frolic with Fritz in his own happy home. I am endeavoring to be as accurate and truthful as possible in these stories of my soldiering, and I am the more compelled to say that there wasn't a man in the sixty who didn't show the strain in his pallor and nervousness. Under orders, we discarded our trench helmets and substituted khaki caps or empty mess tins. Then we blackened our hands and faces with ashes from a camp fire so as to avoid being seen as long as possible. After this they loaded us into motor trucks and took us up to "Shrapnel Corner" from which point we went in on foot. Just before we left a staff captain came along and gave us a little talk.

off at a great rate while you're on your way across. Remember that you'd better not stand up straight, because our shells will be going over just six and a half feet from the ground where it's level. If you stand up straight you're likely to be hit in the head, but don't let that worry you, because if you do get hit in the head you won't know it. So why in hell worry about it?" That was his farewell. He jumped on his horse and rode off.

The Bomb Raid.

The point we were to attack had been selected long before by our scouts. It was not, as you might suppose, the weakest point in the German line. It was, on the contrary, the strongest. It was considered that the moral effect of cleaning up a weak point would be comparatively small, whereas to break in at the strongest point would be something really worth while. And if we were to take a chance it really wouldn't pay to hesitate about degrees. The section we were to raid had a frontage of 150 yards and a depth of 200 yards. It had been explained to us that we were to be supported by a "box barrage," or curtain fire, from our artillery to last exactly twenty-six minutes—that is, for twenty-six minutes from the time when we started "over the top" our artillery, several miles back, would drop a "curtain" of shells all around the edges of that 150 yard by 200 yard section. We were to have fifteen minutes in which to do our work. Any man not out at the end of the fifteen minutes would needlessly be caught in our own fire, as our artillery would then change from a "box" to pour a straight curtain fire covering all of the spot of our operations.

Our officers set their watches very carefully with those of the artillery officers before we went forward to the front trenches. We reached the front at 11 p. m., and not until our arrival there were we informed of the "zero hour"—the time when the attack was to be made. The hour of 12:10 had been selected. The waiting from 11 o'clock until that time was simply an agony. Some of our men sat stupid and inert. Others kept talking constantly about the most inconsequential matters. One man undertook to tell a funny story. No one listened to it, and the laugh at the end was enervated and ghastly. The inaction was driving us all into a state of funk. I could actually feel my nerve oozing out at my finger tips, and if we had had to wait fifteen minutes longer I wouldn't have been able to climb out of the trench.

About half an hour before we were to go over every man had his eye up the trench, for we knew "the rummies" were coming that way. The rum gang serves out a stiff shot of Jamaica just before an attack, and it would be a real test of temperance to see a man refuse. There were no prohibitionists in our set. Whether or not we got our full ration depended on whether the sergeant in charge was drunk or sober. After the shot began to work one man next me pounded my leg and bellowed in my ear:

"I say, why all this red tape? Let's go over now."

"That noggin of rum is a life saver."

When the hour approached for us to start the artillery fire was so heavy that orders had to be shouted into ears from man to man. The bombardment was, of course, along a couple of miles of front so that the Germans would not know where to expect us. At 12 o'clock exactly they began pulling down a section of the parapet so that we wouldn't have to climb over it and we were off.

There are six articles in this remarkable series by Sergeant McClintock. Two have already been printed, and the third will appear soon. It is the most interesting one of the series thus far and is entitled:

"Over the Top and Give 'Em Hell!"

The English Tommy's battle cry as he breaks from his trench. The bomb raid and what happened. Of sixty that started forty-six failed to return because the Germans had prepared a surprise for them. Graphic description of Sergeant McClintock's terrible experience.

Handy Literature.

Saunderson found it very hard work selling books. "The volumes he had to offer, one of which he had to carry with him as a sample, were very heavy, and nobody seemed to want them. But he was a persistent man, and even the stubborn Mrs. Bowling could not send him away unheard. "We have all the books we can use," she said, "and we really can't afford any more reading matter. Why, I haven't even opened the second volume of that Roman history you sold us last spring. Now, if you were selling one of those adjustable ironing boards—" "I've got just the thing!" said Saunderson cheerfully. "There are twelve books in this set, and you can use either one or two or three, and so on up to six, to tilt your board any way you want to. And between whiles when your iron is heating you have good literature to refresh your mind."

A Bonehead.

There are many things dropped in the subway ticket chopper by absent-minded riders besides the little piece of pasteboard which entitles them to a ride. An eccentric looking young man and his particularly eccentric looking wife hurried up to the door of a Broadway theater last night. The man reached into his pocket, handed the doorman some tickets and, assisting his wife before him, turned to receive the stubs. "These are subway tickets," said the doorman. At the rate of two pockets per second the young man searched himself. Then he clapped his hand on his forehead. "Good heavens, Annie," he gasped. "I put the seats in the subway!"

"This is the last time you men have been tested," he said. "You're Canadians. I needn't say anything more to you. They're going to be popping them

How to Stop Loss of Hair and Start New Growth

If your hair is thinning out, lifeless, full of dandruff, and your head itches like mad, it's a sure sign of the dangerous dandruff germ, and quick action must be taken to save what hair you have and start a new growth. Don't wait until the hair root is dead, for then nothing can help you, but get from your druggist four ounces of Parisian sage—it doesn't cost much and there is nothing you could use that's any better. Dr. Sangerbend, the famous Paris specialist, discovered that dandruff and falling hair are caused by a microbe—then came the discovery of the value of Parisian sage (liquid form) to destroy this germ, prevent falling hair and the formation of dandruff. A few massages with Parisian sage are all that are usually needed, and very soon you should be able to see the new hairs coming in. Parisian sage is women's favorite hair dressing, because it will not stain and makes the hair lustrous, soft and fluffy. Be sure you get Parisian sage (Giroux's), for this brand is guaranteed. W. A. It must be applied freely to produce best results. No matter how poor the complexion the skin soon will be completely spotless, with the bloom of youth that only nature (in the form of buttermilk) can give.

Buttermilk might well be called a beauty food, and the woman who has refused to indulge in such so-called "beauty" foods as face cream, face powder, etc., is really missing a good thing, using it since buttermilk cream actually ministers to her well being as food and bathing do. Be sure you get Howards Buttermilk Cream, made from true buttermilk. T. J. Evans, adv.

RESISTS WEAR.

The Boy Scouts are out on another hike. They are found to require more shoe repairing than a number of the most diligent collectors, because a boy is more active than any other person. Every Boy Scout should have his shoes resoled with Neolin or Vultex, the greatest substitute for leather known. It resists wear longer than leather—in fact, from three to four times—besides they are waterproof as sealskin, flexible, do not crack or creak and will not mar the floor. Wm. Fishbaugh & Son, 57 Hudson avenue, will resole your shoes and cut the cost of your shoe bills in two. 17-17

U BOAT PERIL IS GROWING WORSE

Submarines Now Able to Remain Motionless in One Place.

PROPELLERS ARE NOISELESS

Telescopic Periscopes Now in Use Can Be Shot Out of Water and Back Again in a Minute—New Listening Devices Enable Crew to Tell Type of Vessels Near Them.

Developments increasing the efficiency of German submarines since April 1, it was learned on high authority, have made the U boat menace still more baffling to the allies.

Four small pumps, regulated by electrical devices so the hydrostat will indicate the depth of submergence, by which the submarine is enabled to remain motionless under the water. Formerly the submarine was obliged to come to the surface like a whale. It planned up, assumed a level position on the surface, and to submerge it planned down for the dive, the operation requiring two and a half minutes. It was obliged also to continue in motion always unless anchored to the bottom, being in this respect like an airplane, which has to keep going or fall to the earth. The submarine, before the new device was installed, would either sink or rise to the surface if it stopped.

Device Shields U Boats.
With the pumps, if the tendency is to rise when the U boat is motionless, more water is pumped in; if the tendency is to sink, water is pumped out. Thus the submarine is now enabled to visit any spot in the ocean, submerge to the desired depth and lie perfectly still.

Before this device was installed the throb of the submarine's propellers was heard by submarine chasers. Now the submarine may elude the pursuer by standing still under water. Formerly the submarine used up the power in its storage batteries, and that meant fuel consumption in some form. Now by being able to remain still the boats consume less fuel and are enabled to stay at their posts for a considerably longer time than formerly.

German submarines are using telescopic periscopes. The U boat floats very near to the surface, then suddenly shoots up its periscope, in this manner being able to detect as quickly as being detected. The submarine in the same manner may be withdrawn instantly, and the submarine can change its position without leaving a wake. Heretofore the periscope went slashing through the water, leaving a great white wake.

Now the German submarines are using the Diesel engine, it being supplied with oxygen and a mixture of strained gas, which takes the place of air. The exhaust is broken up by a series of widespread, fine meshed nets, so that the gas is washed free of smoke, and on coming to the surface it is in infinitesimal bubbles which do not make any wake.

Remarkable improvements have been made in the German submarines' telephones and listening devices, enabling them to hear and locate at a considerable distance the direction and the type of vessels from the frequency of their propeller turns. This listening radius is usually about five miles.

BOILED SHIRT DOOMED.

Starch Savers Also Urge Ban on Stiff Collars.

The stiff collar is "botted" and the stiff collar is about to say their adieu for the period of the war. If one of the pet plans of the new food administration is carried to its logical conclusion.

This was brought out when Dr. R. L. W. Wilbur, temporary chief of the food conservation department of the administration, said some of the many ways in which the people of the United States would be asked to conserve food materials.

Dr. Wilbur called attention to the vast amount of starch that might be conserved for food purposes if the starch that annually is used to stiffen post prandial shirt fronts were diverted to the kitchen of the American housewife. He indicated that the next social season may witness soft shirts and collars with some soft rolling effect—possibly built on the lines of the sport collar—as the style de rigueur. The women also will be hit by the new ruling, for there will be no more daintily starched frilleries and fineries.

Two Crops in One Year.
W. W. Rike, a farmer of Danville, Ill., has an unusual method of raising potatoes, and it is being watched with a great deal of interest by his neighbors. Some time ago he planted the potatoes in individual boxes in a hot-house, and a few days ago he transplanted them to the garden. He now has potatoes two months ahead of any in the vicinity. Mr. Rike says if the plan proves a success he will plant another crop of potatoes on the same ground, the last crop to be stored for the winter.

Good Food For Troops.
The country's hotel men are to spend $2,000 for a force of cooks to teach cooks in American army camps.

I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Slacker

I didn't raise my boy to be a slacker. I brought him up to be my pride and joy. If another land insults us we will chuck her. No other country with our rights can toy.

I didn't raise my boy to be a slacker. I taught him true American to be To fight when fight he should, for liberty and good. I didn't raise my boy to be a slacker. T. A. M. in New York Evening Sun.

OUR RED CROSS TO USE DOGS.

Training School to Be Set Up Near Paris.

America's dogs will "do their bit" in the war. A number of them, specially fitted for Red Cross work, are already in France.

The American army sanitary experts have authorized the American Red Cross to establish immediately a dog training school near Paris. The dogs will be trained as French Red Cross dogs are, to find American wounded on the field, particularly over terrain that is broken or wooded. A number of expert American dog handlers are already in France and will begin the work at once with a few of the American dogs already received. More are said to be on the way, and the American training station will likewise receive a number of French dogs.

According to the plan of the Red Cross dog experts, three trained dogs will be attached to each Red Cross ambulance unit.

NEW MARCHING SONG FOR OUR ARMY IN FRANCE

"Over the Sea to Germany" Was Composed by Men on the Way Over.

The American troops in France have a new marching song—"Over the Sea to Germany."

The music was composed by Clarence Gridley, a son of the famous Captain Gridley of Manila Bay, and the words were written on the way over by John Erb, commissary clerk on one of the transports. The chorus goes: Goodby, dear old Yankee land Hello, France! We've sailed across the ocean to make the Germans dance. They have tried to rule the world with military stuff. But we come from a country that never takes a bluff.

The music is reminiscent of "Tipperary," "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" and the "Poxology," but it will do.

It has a great march rhythm and makes a great hit with the French as the regiments swing past.

NIAGARA FOR EAST RIVER.

Miniature Cataract to Be Feature of New Aqueduct Celebration.

Beginning on Columbus day and continuing till the evening of Oct. 14 all sorts of spectacular things are going to take place to celebrate the completion of the Catskill aqueduct, the new water system for New York city.

One of the features of the celebration is to be a sort of mimic Niagara in the East river. A high pressure pipe is to be laid across the edge of one of the bridges. Holes are to be punched at intervals in the pipe in such a way that the water can fall directly to the river below. The "cataract" will be illuminated in the evening. River traffic will be suspended temporarily if necessary.

The ceremony of "delivering the water to the city" will take place at the city hall on Columbus day. Mayor Mitchell will preside, and former Mayor McClellan, who broke ground for the aqueduct ten years ago, will be the guest of honor. A fountain designed by MacMonnies and Franklin Hastings, which is the gift of Mrs. Angelina Crane, will be unveiled at the city hall plaza. A cornerstone of another fountain in Central park will be laid.

On the following days there will be parades, dinners, pageants and musical festivals in churches and schools.

All Except Two in Elmford Jail Eager to Enlist.

Thirty-five out of thirty-seven inmates of military conservation are in the new Westchester (N. Y.) county penitentiary due to Elmford, of which V. Everett Macy, commissioner of correction, is head, have offered to go to war. They prefer the trenches to a life of comparative ease in the world's newest and most luxurious jail.

"They are all eager to enlist," said Warden Calvin Derrick, "except two who have wives and small children. These are the only ones who made any claim for exemption at the registration."

Nearly all the eligibles are serving time for misdemeanors and therefore are not barred from army duty. Mr. Derrick is highly pleased with the patriotic spirit of his charges and concluded, "We have no slackers." So far 120 inmates have been received at the penitentiary, which is only partly completed.

No Luck in Horseshoes.
A down and outer stole two horseshoes to chance his luck. A policeman saw him and as he was led to jail he decried his willingness to swear there was no luck in horseshoes.

Some conversations are flat, some flatter.

NOT A SLIP—NOT A MISS—THE RAILROAD'S WAR RECORD

"So far as I know the railroads in this country afford the only instance where the owners of private property have voluntarily subordinated their personal interests to the requirements of the nation for the period of the war. Others may be willing to do so, others may intend to do so, but so far as I know the railroads up to the present time are the only ones."

DANIEL WILLARD.

The railroads of the United States have met every emergency since the declaration of war, according to Daniel Willard, chairman of the Committee on Transportation of the Council of National Defence. The railroads have to their credit, through co-operation with the War Board, the following achievements:

The GCS companies operating in forty-eight States and controlling 283,000 miles of road have been practically nationalized and are working as one system.

They have made all transfer of troops on schedule, without interfering with civil traffic, to the entire satisfaction of the War Department.

They are handling at the same time, without congestion, more than 3,000,000,000 more ton miles a month than a year ago, or an increase of sixteen per cent.

They have successfully handled the added traffic thrown on them by the withdrawal on account of the war of many lake and seacoast vessels.

In spite of this increased business they have decreased the general car shortage one-third since May 1.

They have increased the practical supply of cars by 779,000 through heavier loading, quicker repairs, quicker handling, by pooling shipments at lake and seaports, thus releasing cars immediately and by utilizing box cars that formerly were sent to the coast empty.

They have given preference to coal shipments, particularly for the government and its allies.

Twenty-nine per cent more bituminous coal was handled in April this year than in the same month of 1916.

Second preference has been given to ore shipments, which also have increased enormously.

The grain situation also has been greatly improved. There is no grain being held at any point because of a car shortage.

Arrangements are being perfected so that the entire domestic fruit crop also will be handled satisfactorily. To further this efforts are being made to supply cars where needed by transferring empty cars from one section to another regardless of ownership.

All passenger trains not absolutely necessary are being removed from service.

In short the railroads are meeting all needs of the government, at least as promptly and effectively as if they were under government authority.

"THINK BIGGER" IS ADMONITION OF PRESIDENT BATES

The value of an integrated character was ably demonstrated by Rev. Miner Lee Bates of Hiram college yesterday evening in his address on "Moral and Social Integration." In spite of the threatening weather a fair sized crowd attended. Rev. Mr. Bates said that the fundamental thing in life was to get back to one or two simple principles and to stick to them. He defined character as "the total of a man's loyalties" and stated that every man has definite convictions. Rev. Bates then gave the different stages of development in the loyalty of man—to self; to parents; to the "gang"; to the institution; to the church and sect; to the Christian denomination; to the town; to the best business interests of the country.

That the integrated character is the highest ideal was Bates' main point, and he compared all the loyalties to an endless chain—each one higher than the rest and to keep a perfect balance each loyalty must be respected. He deplored the fact that too many people stick up for their party regardless of whether the party's stand is just or not. "You can never make character by trying to crush a loyalty," said the speaker in referring to the development of character. He paid a tribute to Lincoln, calling him "the greatest example of integrated character" and declared that no check was ever written that could pay for him.

"Germanism is nearly the highest ideal," said Rev. Bates. He expressed himself as commending the manner in which the German people have sacrificed everything near and dear to them to further the interests of the fatherland, but admitted that they had forgotten to include humanity. President Wilson also received a tribute from the speaker, who declared him to be the right man at the helm of the ship of state.

In his closing words Rev. Bates asked his audience to maintain peace, and to forget the sacred rights of humanity, and to put it in his own words—to "think bigger."
